

31 October 2015

To whom this may concern,

Internship Reivew: Wang JingHan

I would like to take this opportunity to write a review on our iOS Developer Intern, Wang JingHan. He is an undergraduate of National University of Singapore and has been working as an Intern in SAP Research & Innovation, Singapore for the period of May - Nov 2015.

On JingHan's first day of work at SAP, he has already shown his keen interest in our project and started to contribute by checking out our project sources from the repository. Ever since then, he has continued to impress the team with his in-depth skill and knowledge in iOS App Development and showed positive attitude at work.

JingHan is definitely a valuable team player and I would strongly recommend him in whatever endeavours that he would pursue in the future.

Sincerely yours,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'Chris Chia', with a stylized flourish extending from the end.

Chris Chia
SAP Frontend Developer Lead